In today's #vatniksoup, I'll talk about #NAFO and its achievements. Pro-Kremlin accounts and Russian opposition often claim that NAFO is nothing but a harassment movement, but this statement couldn't be further from the truth.

1/18

Wikipedia describes NAFO as an "Internet meme and social media movement dedicated to countering Russian propaganda and disinformation", but since its launch, the movement had a strong focus on crowdfunding the Ukrainian military and other pro-Ukrainian causes.

Frana Stradner opened her iPhone and typed a simple call-to-army. Unleash the hounds.

A Washington think-tanker and an expert in Russian propaganda, Stradner is also a member of NAFO — or the North Atlantic Feline Organization — an informal alliance of internet culture warriors, national security experts and ordinary Twitter users weaponizing memes, viral videos and, yes, dog photos to push back against Russian online disinformation.

"I see myself as a NAFO civilian propagandist," said Stradner, an adviser to the Foundation for Defense of Democracies, a conservative think tank. "Until now, Russia has been the only ones willing to play a dirty game." By posting on Twitter, she was letting her 26,000 followers know who they could turn to if they needed to deal with an infestation of "vatniks" — a Russian pejorative for Kremlin sympathizers.

The strength of NAFO stems from its de-centralized structure. There are no leaders or hierarchy, so any kind of character assassination becomes challenging.

This hasn't stopped people from trying that, though, and the vatniks have grasped at straws and relentlessly...

Decentralisation is NAFO's greatest strength

January 25, 2023 | 7 Min Read | David Kirichenko

A meme-driven community has risen to become a formidable force in the fight against Russian propaganda.

In the midst of the Russo-Ukrainian conflict, a group of intrepid individuals came together to take on Russia's formidable propaganda machine.

Dubbed the North Atlantic Fellas Organisation (NAFO), this decentralised community was born out of a viral internet meme and social media movement forged in response to Russia's invasion of Ukraine on February 24, 2022.

By design, the organisation is nearly impossible to shut down, as it lacks a centralised structure that could be targeted. As a result, NAFO has become a crucial player in the ongoing battle to fight Russia's efforts to spread misinformation, all while trying to fundraise and bring awareness to the war abroad.

Why were you seeking to remain anonymous?

I wished to remain anonymous because it's not about me. Once you put a face to a name, it becomes about the person and not the message. And sometimes once you're the face of the 'operation' it can get to your head. We've all seen it time and time again, with numerous aid organizations. Thus, I prefer we continue to talk about NAFO, and not me personally.

What is NAFO and how did you get involved?

NAFO means different things to different people. Some treat it to help others, some use it to fight disinformation, while others use it as a place to find solace from everything that's happening. To me, it means whatever it means to others. There's no need to concentrate on purpose and one purpose alone. By limiting what NAFO means or is, we'd be limiting what NAFO can achieve.

NAFO has also divided into coordinated subgroups with different goals. Some accounts produce memes, some focus on donations, others do research and many ridicule and counter Russian disinformation. All this is done with just one goal in mind - to help Ukraine win the war.

And that's exactly why the movement is being constantly attacked: it is making a big difference with its fight-fire-with-fire tactic against Russian paid trolls & at the same time it aids the Ukrainian war effort. NAFO dogs also support each other by sharing people's content.

I just can't get over this attack on NAFO. While russian opposition was yelling at the whole world for being unfair, cartoon dogs were collecting real money, running real projects, and doing real stuff that saved lives.

Do you know how many concerned russian politicians supported my project to collect generators for Odesa? With people dying not from sharks but from being incapable of drinking fucking water. Zero. None.

Fellas were supportive at every step, they sent links to projects, they donated money, they were spreading every initiative to help Ukraine like wildfire. And it's not like we never had arguments. For fucking sure we did and it is... OK???

I hosted great people (other then Scott Ritter who is an extremely well experienced US military office, WMD inspector, and nuclear arms inspector.) they also define me, my contributions to charity through merch sales define me, how I feel, something you'll never understand

Well different actually, the money we make sits in a fund that is used of the business (our producer and manager mostly) and charities as they arrive. The link he's promoting helps kill people and continue a war that should've ended in negotiations in February 2022.

HOW ITS GOING

You can talk to DD, she manages donations and so on. The only SMO related donations were to the children of Donestk charity.

So far this channel has raised over $2k that we sent to Donbassian refugees located in Rostov. And THAT is something we should brag about. We have also been sending money into Mariupol, are looking to see if there is a need in Kherson, and will be looking for ways to get funds into Popasnaya and Severodonetsk. Once again, thank you.

I'm also working on getting my dad into the chat for an AMA if you all can behave and I can teach him how to use a VPN.

In today's #vatnik soup I'll talk about the "fifth column": a group of people who undermine and sabotage a nation or a group from within, usually in favor of a another nation or a group. Their activities often include sabotage, disinfo & propaganda, espionage, and terrorism.

The fact is that NAFO helps Putin a lot.
Putin's very important propaganda line "The West supports Ukraine because they just want to kill all the Russians" would have faded away... were it not for the constant help of NAFO.

Maria Pevchikh ✓ @pevchikh · Jul 9

Apologies if I am being slow. Perhaps I just don't want to believe my own eyes. Is 'NAFO summit' in Vilnius ACTUALLY celebrating on stage the death of a tourist eaten by a shark? 'Fighting Moscow with humour'? Am I the only missing what's funny about a guy being eaten alive?

Ukraine war, already with up to 354,000 casualties, likely to last past 2023 - U.S. documents

Summary

- Purported U.S. intelligence shows vast casualties on both sides
- War of attrition in Donbas heads for 'stalemate', document says
- U.S. worried Ukrainian attack inside Russia may stir China

MOSCOW, April 12 (Reuters) - As many as 354,000 Russian and Ukrainian soldiers have been killed or injured in the Ukraine war which is grinding towards a protracted conflict that may last well beyond 2023, according to a trove of purported U.S. intelligence documents posted online.

If authentic, the documents, which look like secret U.S. assessments of the war as well as some U.S. espionage against allies, offer rare insight into Washington's view of one of Europe's deadliest conflicts since World War Two.

For some reason, these same people were critical of Kaja Kallas' greetings to all of NAFO's Shiba Inus.

And that's definitely not the end of it. The NAFO research team will continue their efforts to expose Russia's fifth column in the West, and there will most certainly be more reports coming from them and me in the near future.

The screenshot shows a Newsweek article page. The main headline is "U.S. Veteran Accused of Spreading Leaked Documents Is Working With Russians" by Jon Jackson, dated 4/27/23 at 3:55 PM EDT. The article text begins with "A former U.S. Navy officer who runs a pro-Kremlin social media network known as Donbass Devushka said native Russians work for her company." It mentions Sarah Bills, a New Jersey native and Navy veteran, and reports that she shared details about having Russian employees during an interview with the Russian state media outlet RT. The article also notes that media outlets reported Donbass Devushka accounts were responsible for spreading leaked classified documents related to Russia's war in Ukraine. A sidebar on the right contains several other article teasers, including "When Climate Change Activism Becomes More Dangerous Than Climate Change", "It's OK to Shout Fire on a Crowded, Burning Planet", "Like It or Not, Dems Are Stuck With Biden", "Climate Philanthropists Should Stop Directing Money to Elite Universities", "America's Awkward History With Coups", "What Israel's Protests Are Really About", and "He Became Death, Destroyer of Worlds. If Only He'd Read a Bit Further...".

At the same time, other #NAFOfellas keep on bonking, churning out memes, crowdfunding millions and millions to aid Ukraine, and keep being a pain in the Kremlin's ass in general.

NAFO expansion is non-negotiable.
