In today's #vatniksoup, I'll introduce an American far-right conspiracy theorist and social media personality, Laura Loomer (@LauraLoomer). She's best-known for her unethical activism and "journalism", and for promoting the most outrageous conspiracy theories.

1/16

Laura graduated in 2015 with bachelor's degree in broadcast journalism, but apparently she skipped the course on journalistic ethics altogether, as she immediately started doing highly controversial and biased reporting, including interviews while wearing concealed camera.

In 2015, she used a hidden camera to record her discussions with university officials about start a club called "Sympathetic Students in Support of the Islamic State of Iraq and Syria". The school then asked the name to be changed to "Students in Support of the Middle East".

With clever editing by a far-right grifter James O'Keefe, the tape was then made to look like the university official was not bothered by a university organization that was supporting the Islamic State. Loomer was then suspended for violating the student code of conduct.

The screenshot shows a news article on the WFTS 6 South Florida website. The article is titled "Group Claims Barry University Approved Pro-ISIS Club" and is by Willard Shepard, published on March 30, 2015. The main image shows a news anchor in a suit standing in front of a screen displaying the Arabic phrase "لا إله إلا الله" (There is no god but Allah) and "ON-CAMPUS CLUB?". To the right, there is a "Trending Stories" sidebar with several article thumbnails. At the bottom of the article, a caption reads: "Project Veritas claims Barry University approved a pro-ISIS club in an undercover video."

The screenshot shows a news article on the Local 10.com website. The article is titled "Barry University professor files criminal complaint against student" and is by Glenna Millberg, Reporter, published on April 9, 2015. The article text states: "Laura Loomer accused of secretly videotaping professors, portraying them as ISIS supporters". Below the text is a video player showing a man speaking. A caption over the video reads: "PV JOURNALIST So maybe like just take out like the Islamic State part so that people don't think that we're like you know supporting terrorists." At the bottom of the video player, it says "VISIT PROJECTVERITAS.COM TODAY". On the left side of the page, there is a "NEWS" section with a "Sign up for our Newsletters" form and a "LATEST NEWS" section with three article thumbnails.

Soon after this, Loomer and two other women attempted to entrap Hillary Clinton's campaign workers into accepting illegal cash donations. At this time, he was allegedly already working for O'Keefe and his far-right activist group Project Veritas.

In 2016 during the US presidential election, Laura went to the polling station dressed in a burqa and asked for a ballot under the name of Huma Abedin. In Jun 2017, she gave a speech "anti-sharia" protest in NYC and condemned "liberals who aligned themselves with sharia law."

OPINION

Hey there, time traveller!
This article was published 19/08/2017 (2250 days ago), so information in it may no longer be current.

Somewhat lost in the mayhem this past week surrounding United States President Donald Trump's grotesque flirtations with white supremacists and neo-Nazis was a modest, related uprising in Canada.

In the space of just a few days, the Rebel Media, a far-right website founded two years ago out of the ashes of the short-lived Sun News Network, has imploded under the weight of its own foolish attempts to find sense in the blatantly nonsensical "alt-right" movement.

The implosion began Monday, when Brian Lilley — a conservative broadcaster of some notoriety and co-founder of the Rebel — suddenly

In 2021, Loomer tried to unseat Republican Rep. Daniel Webster in the primary election, but lost. She refused to concede, though, and blamed unspecified voter fraud and "big-tech election interference" for her loss. Loomer's X/Twitter account was reinstated in Dec 2022.

US neo-Nazi says He Fought in Ukraine, Records Place Him in Florida

September 13, 2023 Far-Right Geolocation

A US neo-Nazi who claims he made multiple trips to Ukraine to fight alongside military units can't seem to keep a straight story.

Online court filings place Kent McLellan, who goes by the alias Boneface, in Florida at the same time he claims he was fighting in last year's bloody siege of Mariupol.

Additional records show McLellan was legally mandated to remain in Florida in 2014 and 2015, the two other times he says he visited Ukraine to fight alongside Right Sector and the Azov Regiment. The Florida Department of Corrections confirmed to Bellingcat that he was monitored during this time and never granted permission to travel abroad.

While McLellan could have violated the terms of his parole to leave the US, this appears unlikely as digital evidence of McLellan's life, from social media posts to neo-Nazi forum messages to prison records, shows consistent residence in Florida from 2014 to the present day.

McLellan—who came to wider media attention earlier this month when he participated in a neo-Nazi demonstration outside of Disney World in Orlando—has in recent years bragged of his supposed exploits in Ukraine.

Throughout 2022 his story was widely covered by Russian state media, which accepted it at face value and also claimed he had received Ukrainian citizenship.

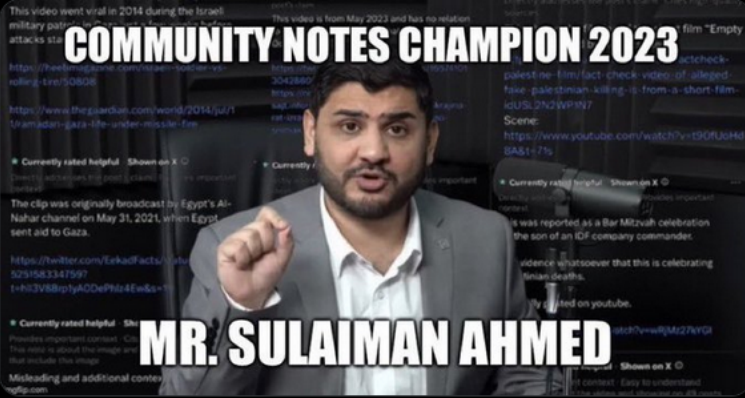

Of course Loomer is no longer talking about any of this, as there are more trendy topics around. Currently she's attacking Hamas/Palestine supporters and fellow "citizen journalists" like @ShaykhSulaiman who disagree with her.

She's also busy sucking up to Donald Trump.

After I vote for President Trump in the primary and the General in 2024, I'm leaving the Republican Party.

I hate the Republican Party to be honest.

None of the elected Republicans are doing anything to fight for President Trump.

And when I leave the party, so will everyone else because if Donald Trump doesn't get back into office, the Republican Party is OVER.

Do you think the low IQ mentally handicapped idiots in GOP leadership understands this? I think these morons were all Dropped on their damn heads when they were babies, because none of them seem to understand how serious this is. None of them have a sense of urgency. None of them understand how this is it. If we don't get Trump back into office, AMERICA IS OVER AND A REPUBLICAN WILL NEVER AGAIN BE ELECTED IN AMERICA!

NONE OF THEM DO ANYTHING TO FIGHT FOR PRESIDENT TRUMP SO NONE OF YOU SHOULD FIGHT FOR THE GOP.
