In today's Vatnik Soup and our "Degenerate Russia" series, we'll discuss what kind of lowlifes sink low enough to support Russia's invasion of Ukraine, lie on Russia's behalf, promote Russian BS, and even gather in Moscow or St. Petersburg to help the Kremlin wage its war.

1/21

For over a decade now and as part of their "firehose of falsehood" propaganda strategy, Russia has been spreading false narratives targeting right-wing/conservative audiences, portraying Russia as a bastion of Christian, traditional, family values.

Of course, it's all BS.

Russia is also normalizing relations with the Taliban, doesn't recognize Hamas or Hezbollah as terrorist groups, and deepens its military partnership with the Islamic Republic of Iran, the regime that legalized pedophilia through child marriage.

Russia issues its first fine for criticizing the Taliban

June 11, 2026, 3:39 pm · Source: Ostorozhno Novosti

A district court in Rostov-on-Don has fined a local resident for a comment he left on VK under a post about the Taliban, citing an administrative statute on inciting hatred, the Telegram news channel Ostorozhno Novosti reported.

The resident is a 19-year-old identified as Yegor A. — Meduza found the court ruling, which includes his last name and states that he works at Aerotekh. The VK community post was titled “The Taliban will flood Russia with grenades, raisins, Coca-Cola, carpets, and cotton.” Under it, Yegor A. wrote: “What the fuck are they doing in Russia, cave-dwelling assholes?”

The court found that the comment “incites hatred or enmity between the people of the Russian Federation and Afghanistan.” Yegor A. was also charged with several additional comments directed at migrants.

According to the ruling, he admitted guilt and expressed remorse. He was fined 10,000 rubles.

- In Russia, the Taliban, which came to power in Afghanistan in 2021, had been banned and designated a terrorist organization. In December 2024, the State Duma passed a law allowing the group to be removed from that list, and in April 2025, Russia’s Supreme Court delisted the Taliban.

Russia got its infamous Shahed suicide drones from Iran, including the designs, and they now manufacture them domestically with child labor and bomb Christian churches in Ukraine with them. There’s also Kadyrov’s TikTok army dreaming of Berlin.

The Russian invasion of Ukraine is unspeakably evil and an unambiguous act of sheer aggression. It obviously raises the question of what sort of person would support it, excuse it, or deliberately try to distract from it.

Normal people also don't travel to Russia now, as there are obvious risks for anyone not serving the regime, such as ending up as a hostage.

Don't Believe the Kremlin's Lies About Race in Russia

By Anna-Maria Tesfaye
July 23, 2025

Francine Villa. msfancy_007 / Instagram

Francine Villa thought she'd found refuge. As a Black woman disillusioned with American racism and police violence, she moved to Russia in 2019 and began building a life she believed would be safer, freer and more humane.

She became a Russian citizen. She gave birth there. She even starred in an RT documentary called "Black in the U.S.S.R.", praising Russia for offering the kind of racial peace she never found in the United States.

Then last week, her neighbors beat her in her own Moscow apartment block. They called her racial slurs. They blocked her entry. They punched her in the face. Her two-year-old child witnessed it all. And when she went to the police, they did what Russian police do best when it comes to racist violence: absolutely nothing.

As someone who's Black and Russian myself, I wasn't shocked. I was furious, but not surprised. Because I didn't flee the West — I fled Russia. I left because racism there isn't an aberration. It's as common as the air.

I was born and raised in Russia. I didn't go there seeking freedom. I came into the world in a country that taught me from childhood that my Blackness made me foreign, suspect or disposable. Every Black person in my family has been physically assaulted at least once. Not just insulted — assaulted. In parks, on public transport, in apartment blocks like Francine's.

One time I was walking home after surgery, still dizzy from anesthesia. Neighbors I'd never seen before started shouting at me, accusing me of being drunk or on drugs. They demanded to know who my landlord was. I told them I owned the apartment. They laughed in my face. A Black person owning property? To them, that was unthinkable.

The Kremlin loves to brand Russia and its fans as the last defenders of "traditional values" against the "decadent" West.

But in reality, Russia's supporters, just like its soldiers, are riddled with accusations of sex trafficking and sexual abuse, including of minors.

Tommy Robinson has travelled to Russia, where he has met Elon Musk's father, Errol, in a Moscow hotel.

Robinson - who has been issuing calls for his supporters to take to the streets across the UK over a bloody knife attack in Belfast - shared video of his meeting with Musk, whose son has been a vocal supporter of Robinson, on Monday.

Musk was in St Petersburg last week at the annual Kremlin-backed economic forum, described as Russia's answer to Davos.

Contacted by the Guardian and asked why he had travelled to Moscow, Robinson, whose real name is Stephen Yaxley-Lennon, said: "I've come to see how this country got itself so well on to the straight and narrow and see the beauty of a civilised society here."

The Tates are facing legal proceedings and investigations in three countries (UK, Romania, US), on many charges including rape, bodily harm, sex trafficking, organized criminal exploitation of women, trafficking of minors, coercion into sex work...

Initially reluctant to speak about it out of concern for her career in those “right-wing values” circles, Lauren Southern later stated that Andrew Tate raped and choked her in a Bucharest hotel room in 2018, after she became unexpectedly intoxicated after only two drinks.

ANDREW TATE'S EMPIRE OF ABUSE

and became a political force—by systematically exploiting women.*

By Heidi Blake
June 8, 2026

"I've done this with over 100 girls," Tate said, about compelling women into sex work. "I almost sound evil. But I'm not." Photo illustration by Kensuke Koike; Source photographs from Getty; Shutterstock

That evening, the Tates took Southern to a club, where they ordered bottle service. After a couple of shots of vodka, she recalls, she suddenly felt “like my consciousness was collapsing.” Tate carried her to his car, and when she came to they were on the bed at her hotel.

Tate started kissing Southern and pulling off her clothes. She told me that she tried to push his hands away, but he wouldn't stop. Then he hooked his arm around her neck and started to squeeze. She remembers thinking, “Oh, shit, this guy actually is going to rape me.” Southern was anti-abortion, and was terrified of getting pregnant. She began pleading with him: “I know what you're gonna do here. Please just wear a condom. Please.”

Southern remembers fading in and out of consciousness as Tate raped her unprotected and choked her. Afterward, he sat on the edge of the bed and said, “Don't tell the press I raped you.” She remembers saying, “My whole brand is literally talking about how stupid bitches get themselves in situations like this. There's nothing I can say without destroying my career. So congratulations.”

In the car to the airport, Southern said, she discovered burst blood vessels around her eyes and marks on her neck. Back in Toronto, she was examined by a nurse who specialized in sexual assault. On an assessment form, the nurse recorded that Southern had been raped and strangled by a “well known male” at a hotel in Romania and had suffered an intimate injury. She noted that Southern seemed to be experiencing “personal struggles with her belief system” as a result.

Southern told me that she tried to apply her political convictions to her experience, telling herself that she was at fault for drinking with a man she didn't know. A month later, she texted Tate. "It was really shitty what you did that night in Bucharest," she wrote. "I'm not going to tell anyone obviously because I was an absolute moron, but I hope you don't do that to anyone else."

"What did I do?" Tate replied. "I expected tons better from you. This msg is some liberal #metoo bullshit."

"You literally strangled me when I said I didn't want to have sex," Southern wrote. "You literally told me in the morning 'don't tell the press I raped you.'"

"You're absolutely embarrassing yourself," he wrote.

Tate denied raping Southern, but he bragged to the War Room about spending the night with her, saying that he had invited her to Romania to discuss a business deal but "didn't invest a fucking penny."

Southern came to wonder if his proposal had been just a pretext. She thought back to her confrontations with women protesting sexual violence and felt regret. But, she told me, "I knew one hundred per cent there was no world in which I spoke about this where I got to retain my status within the right-wing world." For years, she remained silent.

Tate was intrigued by one of Robinson's allies, the Canadian activist Lauren Southern. She had become a darling of the manosphere at the age of nineteen with a video titled "Why I Am Not a Feminist," in which she argued that men were the real victims of an unjust society. She followed up with a series of videos in which she trolled women who marched against sexual violence, ridiculing their views and holding up a sign saying "THERE IS NO RAPE CULTURE IN THE WEST."

In February, 2018, Tate asked Robinson to bring Southern to Romania to discuss a business venture. She told me that she flew to Bucharest without knowing much about Tate; Robinson had simply said that a kickboxer in Eastern Europe wanted to finance her work. When they arrived, Tate was waiting in one of his supercars, and he insisted on taking her out for lunch alone. Over steak, he told her "everything that you would want to hear as a conservative right-wing woman," talking about the importance of family and praising her work. "You're saving Western civilization," she remembers him saying.

After lunch, they headed to Tate's compound. At a long table, Southern listened as the brothers laid out their proposal: they would fund a new right-wing media venture, with her and Robinson in charge, if she would use it to pump a cryptocurrency they were planning to launch. The idea, she recalls, was, "basically, we're going to create a European-nationalist outlet to fleece all these idiots for money."

And indeed, the Tates are not only welcome in the vatnik homeland, but also in vatnik/MAGA circles in the US: followed by JD Vance, promoted by Elon Musk and Tucker Carlson.

Alina Habba, Donald Trump's former personal attorney and now a senior adviser to the attorney general, is a "big fan" of theirs. Benny Johnson, like Lauren Southern, was financed by Russia through Tenet Media.

At that time, by the way, Ritter was married to his 2nd wife – a 19 year old assigned to him by Russia, whom he left his first wife for. Ah those traditional family values!

AFFIDAVIT OF PROBABLE CAUSE

On February 7, 2009 your affiant being an Detective with the Barrett Township Police Department, was conducting undercover operations and investigating the crime of Internet sexual exploitation of children via the computer.

While conducting the investigation, your affiant purported to be a 15 year old male female named "Emily". Your affiant was then contacted by an individual who identified himself as "delmarm4fun". "delmarm4fun" typed that he was a 44 year old male from Albany, NY. The conversation was initiated by "delmarm4fun" in a chat room on Yahoo Instant Messenger.

During the conversation "delmarm4fun" was advised that I was a 15 year old female from the Poconos, PA. The conversation was sexual in nature. During the conversation "delmarm4fun" stated that he wanted me to give him another picture so he can continue to "react". Shortly after he provided the purported 15 year old female a link to his web camera. The camera displayed a male's face and upper body area. A short time later "delmarm4fun" adjusted the camera and focused on his penis area, where he began to masturbate. Your affiant asked him if he had a phone number I could call him at. "delmarm4fun" also provided a cell phone number of 518-365- [redacted], during chat. The wireless number carrier is Nextel.

He then continued to masturbate on web cam and he again asked how old I was. He was advised again that I was 15 years old. He said he didn't realize that I was 15 years old and turned off his web camera. He stated that he did not want to get in trouble. He said I was "fantasizing about fucking you". I told him "guess u turned it off np". He then replied "you want to see it finish". He then again sent a link to his web camera. The web camera showed him masturbating again and then ejaculating.

I then called the wireless phone number "delmarm4fun" provided your affiant and he was advised I was a Police Officer with Barrett Twp Police Department. During conversation "delmarm4fun" provided his personal information as WILLIAM SCOTT RITTER JR of Delmar, NY.

Your affiant obtained several photographs of Ritter and compared the photographs of the "known" RITTER to the web camera video that your affiant obtained while Ritter was masturbating on Web camera. They were of the same person.

On April 22, 2009 your affiant secured a court order for Nextel Wireless to provide

I, DET. RYAN VERINEGAN (R.V.), BEING DULY SWORN ACCORDING TO THE LAWS, DEPOSE AND SAY THAT THE FACTS SET FORTH IN THE FORGOING AFFIDAVIT ARE TRUE AND CORRECT TO THE BEST OF MY KNOWLEDGE, INFORMATION, AND BELIEF.

In the 2001 cases, Ritter entered a chat room and started sexual conversations with undercover police posing as a 14-year-old girl in April and 16-year-old girl in June, Breslin said.

Ritter arranged to meet with the 14-year-old in a McDonald's parking lot on April 18 and the 16-year-old in a Burger King parking lot on June 15, intending to masturbate in front of both girls in a vehicle.

In both cases, police met him when he arrived and arrested him the second time.

Scott Ritter: Economic sanctions won't work, we know that. Iraq has turned economic sanctions around and used it against the United Nations and United States. I think you are coming to the obvious point, but that is a decision that the national security team has to make, not Scott Ritter.

It was not Senator Biden calling for war, it was Scott Ritter.

By 2002 though Scott Ritter was taking a guided tour of Iraq paid for by Saddam's regime and delivering a speech to the Iraqi Parliament where he declared that Iraq had no WMD's and was not a threat to anyone.

What happened specifically to Ritter after 1998? Between 1998 and 1990? Scott Ritter had continued his work this time in Russia, on disarmament. While still married to his first wife, Ritter began an affair with 19 year old Marina Khatiashvili, his Russian supplied translator and escort.

Under the USSR anyone working with foreigners, especially foreigners tied to foreign diplomatic or military service, without exception reported to the KGB. Ritter himself penned numerous reports at the time stating that the Soviets were using the "young girls" to sexually compromise the inspectors. Later Ritter would deny writing these reports. Finally Scott Ritter would divorce his wife and marry the young girl who had been provided for him and the rest of his career would get uglier and uglier.

The critic of Saddam's regime had by 2005 turned into not merely a critic of the Iraq War or the US presence, but an outright cheerleader for the Sunni Ex-Baathist terrorists, who were themselves closely tied to Russia.

Ritter, in turn, is supported by his fellow vatniks, the likes of Tara Reade, Diane Sare, etc. Despite openly supporting Russia's war against Ukraine and the whole of Europe, and even against his own country, he is welcomed in Kremlintarian and "anti-war" circles and even Trump's MAGA/MAHA circles through RFK Jr.

Another vatnik present in St. Petersburg was infamous carrot-eater Steven Seagal, gloriously fighting Russians in his B-movies but now serving them in real life. He, too, has faced multiple sexual misconduct allegations.

Now a proud Russian citizen.

As their “two-day special military operation” is now hitting them even in Moscow and St. Petersburg, Russia is getting desperate and scraping the bottom of the barrel for the worst dregs willing to help them. As this doesn’t seem to be working either, Malofeev is calling for nuclear strikes, as is tradition.

U.S. influencers and an administration official arrived in Russia just as Vladimir Putin, the country's president, needed a publicity boost.

The small group of Americans flew in as the St. Petersburg International Economic Forum, or SPIEF, often dubbed Russian Davos, opened on June 3 in the port city. The annual conference serves as a promotional vehicle for the country as Putin seeks to project strength and global power. Officials say this year they are receiving 20,000 guests from over 100 countries, with 76 countries sending high-level representatives.

Putin has increasingly faced setbacks on the battlefield as a Ukrainian drone strike campaign disrupts critical logistics routes and public support at home wanes. The forum opened to plumes of black smoke rising above St. Petersburg after a Ukrainian aerial attack damaged a naval base and an oil terminal, part of increased strikes targeting Russian oil infrastructure.

Orthodox oligarch Konstantin Malofeev presents Russia's future scenarios at economic forum — the 'positive' one involves a nuclear strike

Konstantin Malofeev, the founder of the Tsargrad television channel, presented a report on scenarios for Russia's future at the St. Petersburg International Economic Forum. He said the report was prepared by the Tsargrad Institute in collaboration with a group of "experts" that included far-right philosopher Alexander Dugin and Vologda Governor Georgy Filimonov.

The authors of the report outline three scenarios they believe could unfold for Russia in the coming decades: an inertial one (“Things continue as they are”), a negative one (“Russia’s enemies succeed in carrying out their strategy”), and a positive one (“We are doing everything in the best possible way”). For each, they identify two milestones: 2036 and 2050.

Here’s what each scenario envisions.

Inertial scenario

- 2036: a frozen conflict with Ukraine; no conditions for a quick victory; a new arms race.
- 2050: U.S. or Chinese hegemony; the collapse of NATO; technological control by Western artificial intelligence; growing threat of Russia’s destruction in war.

Negative scenario

- 2036: defeat in the war with Ukraine; Ukraine joins NATO; wars in South Ossetia and Transnistria; the preservation of “regional sovereignty” in a reduced form.
- 2050: the “colonization” of Russia; the complete loss of sovereignty; a unipolar world; the creation of a military bloc based on the European Union.

Positive scenario

- 2036: the use of nuclear weapons; the collapse of the European Union; the capture of Kyiv and Odesa; the full subjugation of Ukraine — either through annexation, turning into a buffer state, or the creation on its territory of a “new East Slavic state.”
- 2050: Russia ensures “global security and justice,” the formation of its own macro-region in Eurasia, and the “trinity of the Russian people.”

To achieve the positive scenario (which, again, includes a nuclear strike), Malofeev and the report’s other authors propose a list of 10 “best actions” for the Russian authorities. These include “de-Westernization,” autocracy, a cult of the family, urban depopulation, and a new Constitution.

And, last but not least, their tsar and idol Vladimir Putin himself was denounced as a pedo by Alexander Litvinenko. For this, Russia murdered him with a dose of polonium-210 worth $10 million, a British citizen, executed in the middle of London.

The Kremlin Pedophile

By Alexander Litvinenko

A few days ago, Russian President Vladimir Putin walked from the Big Kremlin Palace to his Residence. At one of the Kremlin squares, the president stopped to chat with the tourists. Among them was a boy aged 4 or 5.

'What is your name?' Putin asked.

'Nikita,' the boy replied.

Putin knelt, lifted the boy's T-shirt and kissed his stomach.

The world public is shocked. Nobody can understand why the Russian president did such a strange thing as kissing the stomach of an unfamiliar small boy.

The explanation may be found if we look carefully at the so-called "blank spots" in Putin's biography.

After graduating from the Andropov Institute, which prepares officers for the KGB intelligence service, Putin was not accepted into the foreign intelligence. Instead, he was sent to a junior position in KGB Leningrad Directorate. This was a very unusual twist for a career of an Andropov Institute's graduate with fluent German. Why did that happen with Putin?

Because, shortly before his graduation, his bosses learned that Putin was a pedophile. So say some people who knew Putin as a student at the Institute.

The Institute officials feared to report this to their own superiors, which would cause an unpleasant investigation. They decided it was easier just to avoid sending Putin abroad under some pretext. Such a solution is not unusual for the secret services.

Many years later, when Putin became the FSB director and was preparing for presidency, he began to seek and destroy any compromising materials collected against him by the secret services over earlier years. It was not difficult, provided he himself was the FSB director. Among other things, Putin found videotapes in the FSB Internal Security Directorate, which showed him making sex with some underage boys.

Interestingly, the video was recorded in the same conspiratorial flat in Polyanka Street in Moscow where Russian Prosecutor-General Yuri Skuratov was secretly video-taped with two prostitutes. Later, in the famous scandal, Putin (on Roman Abramovich's instructions) blackmailed Skuratov with these tapes and tried to persuade the Prosecutor-General to resign. In that conversation, Putin mentioned to Skuratov that he himself was also secretly video-taped making sex at the same bed. (But of course, he did not tell it was pedophilia rather than normal sex.) Later, Skuratov wrote about this in his book Variant Drakona (p.p. 153-154).

British detectives believe the radioactive substance used to kill former Russian spy Alexander Litvinenko cost in excess of $US10 million ($A12.8 million), The Times reported in an early edition of its Monday paper.

According to the newspaper, preliminary results from the post mortem on Litvinenko's body have shown he was given more than ten times the lethal dose of polonium 210, large quantities of which were found in his urine.

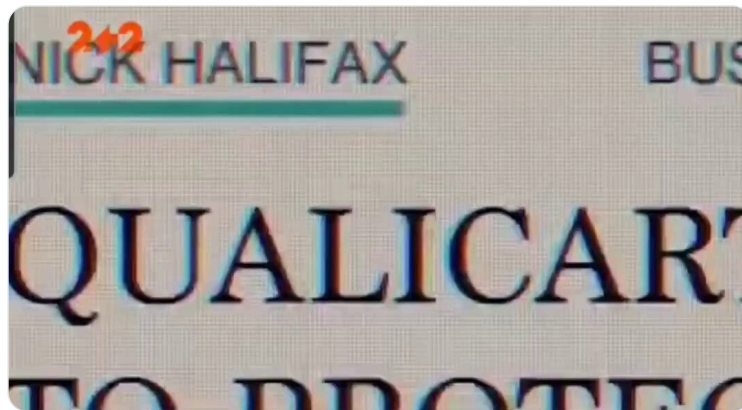

Litvinenko fell ill on November 1, and died on November 23.

Russia spends $5 billion a year on propaganda to manufacture support for its invasions through vatniks and narratives grotesquely disconnected from reality such as their alleged "family values" of terror, abuse and destruction, pushed by the worst scum on earth.
