Mises Caucus Takes Control of Libertarian Party

Dominating the convention body by more than two-thirds, the Mises Caucus claims to offer an edgier, more libertarian organization. Foes accuse it of right-wing deviationism and racism.

A four-year battle for control of the Libertarian Party (L.P.) ended Saturday in Reno with a victory for the Mises Caucus at the party's national convention. The faction's chosen candidate for chair of the party's national committee, Angela McArdle, won on the first round of balloting with 692 votes—more than 69 percent of the voting delegates.

Le Mises Caucus, très controversé, est un groupe au sein du LP qui défend le « paléolibertarianisme » de Murray Rothbard, visant à unir les libertariens au « populisme de droite ». L'une des premières décisions du parti réorienté fut ainsi de ne plus condamner le racisme.

Platform Plank 3.5: Rights and Discrimination

THIS WILL NOT BE ON THE AGENDA AND WILL REQUIRE A SUSPENSION OF THE RULES TO HEAR

Direction: "I move to suspend the rules to Amend Section 3.5 of the platform so as to delete the following sentence: "We condemn bigotry as irrational and repugnant"

This requires a 2/3 vote.*

As Written

3.5 Rights and Discrimination

Libertarians embrace the concept that all people are born with certain inherent rights. We reject the idea that a natural right can ever impose an obligation upon others to fulfill that "right." We condemn bigotry as irrational and repugnant. Government should neither deny nor abridge any individual's human right based upon sex, wealth, ethnicity, creed, age, national origin, personal habits, political preference, or sexual orientation. Members of private organizations retain their rights to set whatever standards of association they deem appropriate, and individuals are free to respond with ostracism, boycotts, and other free market solutions.

As Amended

Explanation: One of the major goals of the Mises Caucus is to make the LP appealing to the wider liberty movement that is largely not currently here with us. That movement strongly rejects wokism and the word games associated with it. This along with the deletion of the abortion plank will display that there are serious cultural changes in the party that are more representative of that movement.

October 11, 2022

 AddThis

by Creede Newton

The Libertarian Party (LP) faces the departures of two state-level parties as membership dues drop and some donors flee the party over questions about economic stewardship and the party's turn to far-right messaging, Hatewatch has found through documents and interviews with former LP members.

Rothbard a également inculqué aux libertariens que « les États-Unis ont toujours tort », trouvant toutes les excuses du monde aux pires dictateurs et à leurs invasions génocidaires, réécrivant l'histoire au besoin, quitte à flirter avec le négationnisme.

instead of being a military junta? Fat chance! But the baloney about “dictators” is deliberately designed to recall probably the single most pernicious fallacy ever promulgated about international relations: the Wilsonian myth that “democracies” are always peaceful and dictatorships ever warlike, so that in any dispute between two nation-states, the “democracies” are always assumed to be angelic and the dictators aggressors. Well, it sounds plausible, but it just ain’t true. To find out who are more at fault in international disputes, there is no substitute for detailed empirical/historical investigation of the facts.

The facts, by the way, provide us with two rules-of-thumb that work remarkably well in virtually all disputes through modern history: (1) the United States is always wrong (or more wrong); and (2) Great Britain is always wrong. And what if, once in a while, the U.S. and Britain conflict? Then we look in more detail to the data. Britain was wrong in the Revolutionary War (which was not really an inter-state conflict), and the U.S. was wrong in the War of 1812 and in the near-war Venezuelan Crisis of the 1890s.

The European tragedy was that it was generally admitted, by most of the British, by the French (when their grandeur was not involved), and by world opinion, that the Germans were morally right, that the Versailles settlements deserved to be radically revised (e.g., the truncation, and then the prohibited Anschluss, of Austria; the geographical abortion under Czech despotism that called itself the "democracy of Czechoslovakia"; Polish tyranny over the Germans in the Corridor and Danzig, to say nothing of Upper Silesia, etc.). Being morally and generally realized as such, the Versailles settlement was also foredoomed to failure, as the suffering peoples continually would clamor for redress. Taylor points out that it was the great merit of the unsung Ramsay MacDonald to have realized this and to have set the "appeasement" line for Britain until 1939. It was the tragedy of Europe that once this was recognized as the right policy (the rational policy at once the most moral and the most expedient) what it was not pursued as rapidly and as determinedly as possible. Britain dawdled; and not all the British statesmen had the insight to approve "appeasement" as manifested by MacDonald, Stanley Baldwin, or Sir John Simon. Locarno, the grudging end of reparations, etc., were steps taken dawdlingly, haltingly, and slowing. If appeasement had been pursued steadfastly by the late 1920 perhaps Hitler would never have come to power at all. So the tragedy of Europe was therefore this: that Britain (the leader of the Anglo-French coalition) understood that appeasement was the only rational policy, but, being the country "on top," a victor at Versailles over a vanquished Germany, inexcusably dawdled and delayed in putting this into execution. As a result, Hitler was forced to bluster and threaten, or to appear to do so, in order to win concessions which Britain should have granted a decade earlier. As a result, as each "crisis" developed in the late 1930s it seemed — even to Chamberlain and the British — that Hitler was exacting, by vicious threats, and a step at a time, concessions from a grudging, frightened Britain and France. Hitler was put in the wrong in the eyes of Europe and the world, when he was eminently in the right, and all because the British refused to pursue its goal of rational appeasement quickly and single-mindedly

I'm sure some of you saw the story the other day that Patrick Byrne sold all of his shares of Overstock. According to him, he did this to protect the company from the fallout as he gears up for war w the deep state. He claims he used the proceeds to buy metals and crypto so that as it gains on the economic downswing he can inject capital into the company. He really sounds like he's on a mission.

Some of you may remember that Byrne donated $5000 dollars to us in 2017 after I met him at the Nexus conference, just months after this group was created. He requested updates.

It's been a while, but I think I'm going to email him an update as well as words of encouragement. I really believe that his is a story to watch in the coming months.

Pro-Trump Patrick Byrne boosts funds to far-right voter-conspiracy groups

Ex-Overstock chief using Maga-allied America Project to steer large amounts to groups pushing fringe theories

The multimillionaire and prominent election denier Patrick Byrne has been boosting his funding to the Maga-allied America Project and using it to steer six-figure checks to far-right groups that push voting conspiracies in Arizona, Michigan and elsewhere, according to tax records and voting experts.

Byrne, the former CEO of online retailer Overstock.com, said last fall that only $3m of the $30m the Florida-based project had raised at that point came from “the public”, with the rest coming from him.

In 2022, the America Project almost doubled its revenues to $14.3m versus some $7.7m the prior year, according to tax records first disclosed by Issue One, a bipartisan political reform group.

The America Project was launched in April 2021 by Byrne and Michael Flynn, the former national security adviser to Donald Trump when he was president; both Byrne and Flynn have been vocal purveyors of falsehoods that Trump lost the 2020 election due to fraud. They were also both at a meeting with Trump and others in late 2020 to brainstorm ways to overturn his loss.

On y trouve aussi Walter Block, fondateur de « Libertariens pour Trump », qui reprochait aux libertariens d'avoir « gâché l'élection » et d'avoir été « stupides » en 2020 en ne votant pas pour Trump dans les États clés, lui faisant potentiellement perdre l'élection.

In 2016 physician Donald Miller, historian Ralph Raico and I started a group called Libertarians for Trump. Our advice to libertarian voters was: If you live in Massachusetts or California, strong blue states, vote for Gary Johnson, the Libertarian nominee. The Republicans will lose big there, and your vote for the porcupine won't help the donkey beat the elephant. Likewise in Louisiana or Alabama, where Mr. Trump was sure to win. But if you live in a purple state, don't vote Libertarian. It is crucial that Donald beat Hillary!

I kick myself for not reinstituting this effort in 2019. My thought was that Gary Johnson, a former governor, was well-known and might manage 5% of the vote. He actually registered 3.27%, still more than three times the previous record of 1.06%, set by Ed Clark in 1980. I figured Ms. Jorgenson for 0.25%. She now looks on track to exceed Mr. Clark's percentage slightly—and hand the presidency to Mr. Biden.

Pardon me while I beat my head against the wall. How could libertarians in purple states be so stupid?

Mr. Block is a professor of economics at Loyola University New Orleans.

Kremlintarianism

"Don't tread on Putin! Tread on Ukraine!"

Kremlintarianism is the support of Kremlin policies (Kremlinism, in particular the russian invasion of Ukraine) by self-professed libertarians. Kremlin policies, of course, are the complete opposite of the libertarian philosophy of non-aggression and individual rights.

Kremlintarians are therefore anti-libertarian vatniks (followers and spreaders of Kremlin propaganda) and tankies (supporters of authoritarian regimes) pretending to be libertarians.

“ They have crossed the line from a belief that the U.S. should “mind its own business” to explaining that the reason we should do so is because the regimes we’ve been told to be wary of by the shapers of American foreign policy are in fact righteous victims and national liberators.

What’s so ironic is that so-called libertarians are defending nationalist politicians who never hesitate to use the full powers of the state in quashing the personal freedoms of their citizenry

Russia's war on Ukraine has exposed a deep divide within the world of libertarians, who typically champion personal rights and freedoms while opposing the excessive powers of government.

For libertarians in countries near Russia, like Poland and Estonia, the Kremlin's action in Ukraine is government tyranny writ large. The Russian state has invaded Ukraine, unleashing a wave of violence that deprives Ukrainians of their right to live peacefully.

Tandis que la section du Nevada appelait à « laisser l'Ukraine brûler », les libertariens sensés ont démissionné, y compris des sections entières. Certains ont même fondé un nouveau parti, et les partis libertariens d'autres pays ont officiellement pris leurs distances.

Spanish Libertarian Party Freezes Relations With US Libertarian Party

BY GEORGE PHILLIES ON DECEMBER 14, 2022 11:28 PM

In a resolution (full text here) adopted unanimously at the 6th Convention of the Libertarian Party of Spain (Partido Libertario) on December 3rd, 2022, Partido Libertario, as part of an extended resolution, voted that it:

EXPRESSES its rejection of the infiltration and takeover strategies launched by the international extreme right regarding the libertarian movement in general and libertarian political parties specifically.

EXPRESSES to the International Alliance of Libertarian Parties (IALP) its extreme concern about the unusual and harmful drift of the United States Libertarian Party, and awaits any related demarches by the IALP, while it reiterates its commitment to this international platform.

DECIDES to freeze relations with the Libertarian Party of the United States for the time being and authorises the Federal Executive Committee to resume them by an absolute majority vote in the event that the said political party returns to acceptable positions.

EXPRESSES its support for the Libertarian Party of Russia in its frontal opposition to the Russian regime and to its criminal invasion of Ukraine, and expresses its solidarity with members and leaders suffering imprisonment, criminal prosecution, forced recruitment, hiding and exile. The war in Ukraine rages on, and peace talks have ceased after accusations of genocide have been brought by Presidents Joe Biden and Volodymyr Zelensky. The Bucha killings were egregious, but they were not a genocide.

Genocide is commonly understood to be the deliberate, systematic extermination of a homogenous group of people, like the Jews or Armenians. Accusing someone of committing genocide is a serious accusation and we should not throw such a term around haphazardly.

It is politically risky to call genocide into question once the term has been invoked. French President Emmanuel Macron received criticism for questioning President Biden's accusation that Putin is committing genocide. He stated, "I want to try as much as possible to continue to be able to stop this war and to rebuild peace. I'm not sure that verbal escalations serve this cause." Perhaps Macron recognizes that "genocide" is the magic word invoked for military intervention.

Understanding Russia's Actions in Ukraine as the Crime of Genocide

Abstract

The new wave of Russia's aggression against Ukraine that began on 24 February 2022, and the intensification of the armed conflict accompanied by grave breaches of international humanitarian law, has received significant scholarly attention. Many academic interventions have examined the developments in Ukraine through the frameworks of jus ad bellum and jus in bello. Some, however, have applied a genocide lens to make sense of reported numerous and widespread violations of international humanitarian and human rights law. This article contributes to the latter stream of scholarship by contextualizing the arguments for the existence of genocidal intent behind the seemingly unrelated crimes committed by the armed forces of the Russian Federation all over Ukraine. The authors pay particular attention to the language and pseudo-historical references used by Russia's leaders as a justification for the invasion of Ukraine and argue that these statements and expressions indicate the existence of genocidal intent. This article also reflects on the issue of the systematic destruction of cultural heritage of Ukraine as further evidence of the intent to destroy the Ukrainian nation understood as a protected national group under the Genocide Convention, at least in part. Finally, the authors analyse the genocidal acts that have apparently been committed, including killings; the causing of serious bodily or mental harm; the forcible transfer of Ukrainian children to Russia, and the deliberate infliction of conditions of life aimed at the physical destruction of the Ukrainian nation. It is stressed that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the destruction of the Ukrainian nation by Russia has been pursued through commission of these prohibited acts. Their nature and large-scale character serve as further evidence of genocidal intent to destroy the Ukrainian nation.

... elle n'a eu aucun mal à la lancer contre Israël — une accusation récurrente de... la propagande russe (le reste de l'article est tout aussi fantaisiste).

McArdle omet également de mentionner les enlèvements d'enfants Ukrainiens par la Russie.

In the wake of the Iranian strikes on Israel, some anti-war activists are wringing their hands, anxious to condemn anyone who asserts that Iran has a right to defend itself. While it's certainly good practice to oppose all state-sanctioned violence and to be mindful of the image you project, let's not lose sight of the most pressing issue which is Israel's genocide, the historical reasons for conflict in the Middle East, and how they relate directly to Israel's attacks on Gaza and Iran.

Dear Fellow Colleagues,

I started this term out with much excitement. I spent 5 years fighting an old guard/regime who would gladly let slip the principles this party and ideology were founded on for political expedience. It was brutal. I sacrificed my time, my money, relationships, 2 jobs, a house, and more. I spent years on the road. I woke up in state after state trying to punt the overton window in this party as far away from what they were doing before as I could. For the first few years, it felt like I was an island with just a few others. We were mocked. Our families were attacked. Our pasts and personal lives scrutinized for every tiny detail. Disgusting tactics from those intent on keeping their mostly worthless positions of power. I have had jobs called. Family members harassed. Last year these losers literally called the DHS to try and stop us from adopting the sibling of our currently adopted children. It truly aged me physically and mentally by at least 10 years. We persevered though. Through all the slander and baseless attacks, we kept our heads high because we had a mission, and that mission was worth the pain we had to endure. That mission was to see an LP which represents bold, true libertarians. An LP with bold and brave messaging, unhindered by those who get squeamish over words and memes. An LP that would never, not for a second, sacrifice our principles in the name of "political expediency." An LP that wasn't constantly trying to play backroom games of thrones for titles that hold almost no bearing whatsoever to society at large. We were intent on building a platform that was welcoming to those who held their noses to the LP despite living those principles outside of politics.

Finally, a new board! New alliances! A stellar communications director who knows how to message, etc etc etc. Further proof that the work we did was worth every second and penny. To say I was ecstatic would be an understatement. For someone who was already extremely skeptical of using the political vehicle at all, I was enamored with the thought that this would be the year where the LP shined, and finally started making some headway.

Unfortunately, I cannot see much changing. I quickly noticed that many of these same backroom tactics would be employed, albeit much more quietly done than before. The same lust for power roles that had always made me skeptical of politics in general still exist here. The fighting is not over. The messaging for the party was handcuffed. Our staff, who have all mostly bled for this party in one way or another are out the door, and now we have the Rage Against the War Machine fiasco tied to us entirely. Seriously? I'm as antiwar as any single person you know, but devout Soviet respecer Tankie Marxists threatening to kill me if I show up to an event we are sponsoring? There is a line that must not be crossed. This event has crossed it. Never mind the credible charges and convictions of child predation for one of the speakers, which is absolutely terrible too (what the hell are we thinking?) This is not something that I, a proud antiwar activist for the better part of 18 years, can be part of or attached to. What the hell? Antiwar means antiwar. It doesn't mean applauding a side in a war, whether that side is right or wrong. Innocent people still die. I don't really know if I have left the LP, or if the LP is just leaving me, but either way, this is not what I signed up for.

Most of you on this board are not to blame for the full direction here. Most of you are amazing, and principled people, but please, don't forget why we started this. Don't forget the principles that brought you to this point. Don't sacrifice those things for clout and political expediency. That makes you no better than those we replaced. Refuse to play the intraparty political games. Call out bad actors and actions. I have little faith left unfortunately, that politics will ever be a useful vehicle for our ideals, and I feel like I've wasted more than a decade of my life for something that will never give back to my family, my communist, and myself. Effective immediately, I resign my position as Vice Chair of the Libertarian Party, and all other Libertarian Party affiliations.

I wish you all luck. I hope you do it. I hope you guys can get back to basics and remember the principles of the mission. I love (most) of you and I know that many of your hearts are in the right place. I just have to tap out here and can no longer sacrifice my family for whatever this is.

In Liberty,

Joshua D. Smith

It's time to “weaken” and “calm” France.

Either the French people accomplish this at the voting booth, or the United States must start viewing a nuclear-armed France as an existential threat to our nation and act accordingly.

In short, the world will always find its security at risk so long as France possesses nuclear weapons.

Readers added context they thought people might want to know

Scott Ritter was disgraced in the US because he is a convicted sex offender, caught for exposing himself to minors online.

He turned to Russia after his conviction and has been an asset since. His home was raided by the FBI in 2024 for that reason.

National committee Chair Angela McArdle told The Post that the dissent has come from “a small, noisy faction,” and the rancor will not change her plans.

“I can certainly understand that there are a handful of people allergic to relevance, afraid to confront their political opposition, afraid of losing control of the narrative,” she said, “but in 50-plus years, the Libertarian Party has never been on the main stage politically, and this is an incredible opportunity for us to bring someone who grabs the spotlight and put them on our stage.”

The Libertarian Party, which has historically endorsed limited government and a free-market economy, would typically clash with some of the ideas behind plans Trump has discussed implementing if he wins a second presidential term, such as possibly deploying the military domestically, expanding tariffs and indemnifying law enforcement.

Critics of the latest turn in the Libertarian Party, which is now controlled by a faction of the party called the Mises Caucus, said the group has allowed increasingly right-wing policies and ideas to infiltrate the party, such as the move to argue for the security of the southern U.S. border and recent allegations of bigotry. McArdle told podcaster Austin Petersen last week that “Donald Trump is a much better person and president than Joe Biden,” further infuriating those in the party seeking to distance themselves from Trump.

“I think we’re seeing a lot of people who said, ‘Oh, this is going to be turned into the Donald Trump party,’ and they have been feeling like they’ve been proven right,” Oliver said about the rise of right-wing party leadership. “I think it’s up to Libertarians to shout Donald Trump down and to boo him and to give him the reception he deserves to prove them wrong. Otherwise, they’re proven right.”

RFK Jr. était également présent, lui qui a déclaré que l’invasion génocidaire de l’Ukraine était « de bonne foi » et a fini par – ô surprise – se ranger derrière Trump. Il a pris sa carte de membre au LP à la dernière minute : « un libertarien dans le gouvernement Trump ».

Robert F. Kennedy Jr. Says Russia Acted In 'Good Faith' In Ukraine Invasion

Robert F. Kennedy Jr. said Wednesday he believes Russia acted in “good faith” amid the Kremlin’s invasion of Ukraine, adding the U.S., in fact, bore heavy responsibility for the ongoing war.

Kennedy, who announced his bid for the Democratic nomination in April, made the comments on SiriusXM’s “The Briefing with Steve Scully.” Scully asked about Russian President Vladimir Putin’s continued effort to seize part of Ukraine despite international condemnation. Kennedy claimed the way forward involved “baby steps” toward negotiation, before the host pointed out Putin has so far rejected those calls unless Russia keeps the territory it’s already claimed.

“No, no. Putin has repeatedly said yes,” Kennedy said. “In fact, he negotiated — two times he agreed to agreements. He agreed to the Minsk Accord, and then he agreed in 2022 to an agreement that would’ve left Ukraine completely intact.”

“It was us who forced Zelensky to sabotage that agreement. It was already signed,” he continued. “So, you know, the Russians were acting in good faith. ... So, no, I think we’re the ones who have not been acting in good faith.”

McArdle est réélue à la tête du parti, mais Rectenwald perd face à Chase Oliver. Le Mises Caucus a donc dû s'adapter : McArdle a ouvertement tourné en dérision son propre candidat officiel et a laissé entendre qu'il était tout juste bon à prendre des voix à Biden.

The Much Anticipated Endorsement Announcement

McArdle a dîné avec Trump et lui a promis son soutien contre... la libération d'un seul parmi les milliers de détenus de la guerre à la drogue, Ross Ulbricht (qui a passé tout le 1er mandat de Trump en prison).

Même Trump s'en serait étonné, selon le conjoint de McArdle.

À propos : le couple était en difficultés financières depuis la naissance du petit Arthur, et McArdle a fait payer la coquette somme de 78 000 dollars de la caisse du parti à son partenaire, d'abord de manière officielle puis via diverses sociétés écrans.

The first payment was disbursed on October 18, 2024, for $8,000. Second payment was made on November 8, 2024, for $4,000.

The Libertarian Party of Colorado (LPCO) will not nominate Chase Oliver & Mike ter Maat as its candidates for President & Vice President

LPCO has always stood firmly for liberty, principled opposition to overreaching government, and the promotion of individual freedoms. Our commitment to these values guides our decisions and actions.

Tonight, the LPCO Board passed a resolution affirming our dedication to these principles by deciding not to submit paperwork to place the Oliver/ter Maat ticket on the Colorado Presidential ballot.

This decision was not taken lightly, it reflects the will of our delegation which voted NOTA in the final round of voting. and reiterates our deep concern that the national ticket does not align with the values and strategies that the LPCO holds dear.

Montana Libertarian Party Rejects Chase Oliver's Nomination; Urges LNC to Suspend Candidacy

BY JORDAN WILLOW EVANS ON JUNE 5, 2024 9:02 AM

The Montana Libertarian Party announced on Tuesday that it has officially rejected Libertarian nominee Chase Oliver, urging other affiliates to do the same and calling for the national party leadership to suspend and replace him as the nominee.

In a statement made over social media on Tuesday, the Montana Libertarian Party stated that it does not believe the Oliver campaign advances the party's goals for the state, which it views as its main priority. The statement further called on other state affiliates to follow their lead in rejecting Oliver's candidacy and urged the Libertarian National Committee to consider suspending and replacing Oliver as the party's official nominee.

... l'élection de Trump (et Jill Stein a aussi joué son rôle).

Trump a tenu sa promesse envers McArdle : il a libéré Ross Ulbricht, et elle a en plus été récompensée par un poste dans son administration.

Et le reste appartient à l'histoire.

Donald J. Trump

@realDonaldTrump

I just called the mother of Ross William Ulbricht to let her know that in honor of her and the Libertarian Movement, which supported me so strongly, it was my pleasure to have just signed a full and unconditional pardon of her son, Ross. The scum that worked to convict him were some of the same lunatics who were involved in the modern day weaponization of government against me. He was given two life sentences, plus 40 years. Ridiculous!

MOST URGENT: Michael Heise for LNC Chair

Dear Mises Caucus supporters:

This is perhaps the most important call to action we've ever made, and we need to you act on this IMMEDIATELY—not later today, but RIGHT NOW.

As you may have heard, Angela McArdle is resigning as chair of the Libertarian National Committee for a post in the Trump administration.

Our party now faces a choice: who should follow the most successful and consequential LNC chair we've ever had?

The most obvious choice is Michael Heise, the man who founded the Mises Caucus and engineered the takeover that brought the LP to a stage of political relevance never before achieved.

Mike has announced that he will accept the post—after all, for the last few months he's been employed by the LP to implement the Project Decentralized Revolution strategy as the party's official playbook—and the current members of the Libertarian National Committee have the opportunity to choose him.

However, there is a faction on the LNC who seem to be considering a different approach—namely, to become less "divisive" and to return to the style of leadership and lack of mission that kept the LP largely irrelevant for its first 50 years.

Reason (magazine libertarien haï de McArdle) : « La trahison honteuse de Trump envers l'Ukraine ». Trump a même poussé Javier Milei, libertarien argentin qui semblait jusqu'ici sincèrement apprécier Zelensky, à trahir l'Ukraine à son tour.

Trump's Shameful Betrayal of Ukraine

It's a terrible decision for both moral and pragmatic reasons.

Today is the third anniversary of the beginning of Russia's full-blown assault on Ukraine, on February 24, 2022. Sadly, over the last few weeks, the Trump Administration has moved towards abandoning Ukraine to its brutal enemy. Trump has essentially adopted the Kremlin line on the war - blaming Ukraine for Russia's aggression, and made a series of concessions to Vladimir Putin (foreclosing Ukrainian membership in NATO, letting Russia keep the territory it occupied, etc.), without demanding anything from Russia in return. The Administration has been trying to make a deal under which the US will have rights to much of Ukraine's mineral resources. But they aren't offering any security guarantees or continuation of military aid in return. On top of that, as part of a broader assault on legal immigration, Trump has suspended the highly successful Uniting for Ukraine program, under which Americans are able to sponsor Ukrainian refugees to live and work in the US.

This shift is reprehensible on both moral and strategic grounds. Most conservatives back US support for Israel's war against Hamas, because of the horrific atrocities of the latter. Russian atrocities in Ukraine are comparably awful, and on a much larger scale. Russian forces have brutally massacred civilians, tortured and executed prisoners, and kidnapped thousands of children.

Don't take my word for it. Take that of the millions of people who voted with their feet seeking to escape oppressive and murderous Russian occupation. When Russia has taken territory, millions flee. When Ukraine is able to regain it, only a handful of collaborators do the same. That should tell us all we need to know about which side is in the right in this war. Volodymyr Zelensky's government has some serious flaws. But it is a liberal democracy vastly superior to Putin's increasingly repressive dictatorship.

As regular readers know, I am a native speaker of Russian, a language also known by most Ukrainians. Over the last three years, I have spoken to numerous Ukrainian refugees with a wide range of backgrounds: Christians, Jews, and Muslims; ethnic Ukrainians and members of minority groups (including ethnic Russians); supporters of President Zelensky, and supporters of opposition parties. They differ on many things. But all agree on the horrific brutality of the Russian government, and that Ukrainian rule is far preferable to it. We should listen to these people, not the propaganda emanating from the Kremlin, and now echoed by the White House.

Les vatniks ont eu ce qu'ils espéraient : une Amérique « anti-Ukraine ». « N'importe quel dirigeant ferait ce que fait Poutine » ? Trump n'a pas tardé à dire exactement la même chose sur les crimes de guerre de Poutine : « Il fait ce que n'importe qui ferait ».

Trump says Putin launching massive strike on Ukraine is 'what anybody would do'

US president says he finds Russia easier to deal with than Ukraine after cutting off intelligence and weapons to Kyiv

Donald Trump has said Vladimir Putin was “doing what anybody would do” after Russia launched a massive missile and drone strike on Ukraine days after the US cut off vital intelligence and military aid to Kyiv.

Crimes de guerre et génocide, désormais avec la complicité de Trump.

Trump sauve une Russie au bord de l'effondrement économique.

Il pousse l'Ukraine à se soumettre aux atrocités de l'occupation russe.

Guerre en Ukraine : dans les territoires occupés par les Russes, le piège se referme sur les habitants passés à l'heure de Moscou

ENQUÊTE | Les millions de personnes vivant encore dans ces zones coupées du monde ou ayant fui voient l'espoir d'un retour dans le giron ukrainien s'éloigner, alors que Donald Trump compte évoquer avec Vladimir Poutine, mardi, des « partages » de « terres ».

A quoi ressemble la vie des Ukrainiens dans les territoires occupés par la Russie ? Trois ans après le début de l'invasion, le 24 février 2022, ces régions aux mains de Moscou, qui recouvrent 20 % du pays, sont devenues une zone aveugle. Les communications sont difficiles, dangereuses, les témoignages rares, et les informations parcellaires. Les maires en exil de villes occupées et des familles ayant réussi à fuir récemment, interrogés par Le Monde, décrivent un monde clos et dysfonctionnel où règne la terreur et où tout ce qui est ukrainien est méthodiquement détruit et remplacé par le « monde russe ».

Musk cuts the team finding Ukrainian children stolen by Russia

Trump's federal cost-cutting – led by Elon Musk's Doge – has now hit the unit helping rescue Ukrainian children taken by Russia

There have been more than 19,500 reports of Ukrainian children taken by Russia. Now Musk's funding pause will hamper efforts to find them

Kremlin officials announced their intention of taking advantage of the suspension of US military aid and intelligence sharing to make additional battlefield gains. Russian Security Council Deputy Chairperson Dmitry Medvedev stated on March 5 that US weapons supplies to Ukraine will "most likely resume" but that Russia's "main task" remains "inflicting maximum damage" on Ukraine "on the ground."^[21] Medvedev's statement is consistent with ISW assessment that Russian forces will likely attempt to take advantage of the pause in US aid in order to make further gains in eastern and southern Ukraine to justify Russia's territorial claims to the entirety of Luhansk, Donetsk, Zaporizhia, and Kherson oblasts.^[22] Medvedev also indicated that Russia is aware that it may have a limited time frame in which to leverage the US suspension of aid to "inflict maximum damage" on Ukrainian forces. Russian forces exploited the previous suspension of US military aid in early 2024, including by trying to seize Kharkiv City in May 2024 before US military aid resumed flowing to Ukrainian forces on the frontline.^[23]

Russia plans to build 25 prisons and three forced labor camps in occupied areas of Ukraine

The Russian prime minister has ordered the construction of a large network of prisons to control the population in the illegally annexed territories

The Kremlin is aiming to deepen its control of Russian-occupied zones in Ukraine by building a large prison network. The Russian government is planning to build 25 prisons and three forced labor camps in the four territories it illegally annexed last year: Zaporizhzhia, Kherson, Donetsk and Luhansk. The main goal of the plan is to control the population in these areas. To achieve this objective, Moscow has also officially created a new department of the federal security service (FSB) in the eastern region of Donetsk.

Under the decree, signed by Russian Prime Minister Mikhail Mishustin, 12 penal colonies (as general regime prisons are known in Russia) will be set up in Donetsk, seven in Luhansk, three in Kherson and another three in Zaporizhzhia. The order also includes the construction of four medical prisons, one for each territory, as well as three forced labor camps: two in Luhansk and one in Donetsk. Moscow has not provided details on many inmates can be housed in these facilities.

Trump affaiblit les États-Unis, menace leurs alliés, met en péril l'Europe et le monde entier en encourageant de nouvelles guerres d'agression.

Faiseuse de roi, Angela McArdle ? Peut-être, mais le cas échéant il n'y a pas de quoi être fier.

In today's #vatniksoup, I'll talk about what happens if Russia succeeds in their invasion and permanently holds the regions they now control. If this happens, there will be much more pain and suffering - without peace - for the Ukrainians in the future.

In today's #vatniksoup, I'll introduce an American politician, Angela McArdle (@angela4LNCChair). She's best-known for turning the US Libertarian Party into a wing of MAGA Republicans, and for promoting pro-Kremlin narratives about the Russo-Ukrainian War.
