Nella #vatniksoup di oggi parleremo dei negoziati di pace. C'è un fraintendimento comune secondo cui solo la Russia vuole la pace, mentre l'Ucraina vuole continuare a combattere "fino all'ultimo uomo", ma chiaramente non è affatto così.

Ci sono stati colloqui di pace praticamente durante tutto il corso della guerra russo-ucraina. Il primo incontro si è tenuto in Bielorussia, appena quattro giorni dopo l'inizio dell'invasione. A marzo, ci sono stati altri 4 incontri di negoziazioni in Bielorussia e Turchia.

Initial talks between Russia and Ukraine yield no resolution.

Russia's delegation leader said the next meeting would take place once more along the Ukraine-Belarus border in the "coming days."

Il 5 marzo 2022, l'israeliano Naftali Bennett stava mediando i negoziati tra Ucraina e Russia, coordinati anche da USA, Francia e Germania. Bennett disse che entrambe le parti volevano un cessate il fuoco, e che furono le potenze occidentali a fermare questo accordo.

Prime Minister Naftali Bennett returned to Israel in the early hours of Sunday morning after a surprise whirlwind trip to Moscow and then Berlin to try to mediate a resolution to the Russian invasion of Ukraine.

Se si guarda la mappa in quel periodo, si capisce perché la Russia avrebbe voluto una tregua: controllavano parti orientali, settentrionali e meridionali dell'Ucraina, il loro piano di 3 giorni per prendere Kyiv era fallito e il loro convoglio verso la capitale era fermo.

Confirmed Russian units in the past 24 hours:

The 488th Motorized Rifle Regiment of the 144th Motorized Rifle Division of the 20th Combined Arms Army attacked Kharkiv Oblast.

Elements of the 150th Motorized Rifle Division attacked Donetsk Oblast.

Elements of the 43rd Separate Naval Assault Aviation Regiment attacked Mykolaiv Oblast.

Elements of the 70th Motorized Rifle Regiment of the 5th Combined Arms Army (CAA) of the Eastern Military District attacked either Kyiv or Chernihiv Oblast.

Elements of the 49th CAA, 22nd Army Corps, and the 7th Airborne Assault Division attacked in the direction of Mariupol and Zaporizhia.

Kyiv doveva temere che il convoglio raggiungesse la capitale, e probabilmente voleva anche fermare la Russia dall'inviare altre regioni in Ucraina. Bennett ha poi twittato che aveva i suoi dubbi sull'accordo, e disse che le probabilità che si facesse erano circa 50-50.

Da subito, molti politici dichiararono che la Russia non avrebbe rispettato l'accordo, ad esempio il ministro degli Esteri francese Jean-Yves Le Drian disse che la Russia stava solo "fingendo di negoziare", una strategia che aveva usato molte volte in passato.

Nei primi giorni d'invasione Dmitry Kozak, capo dell'ufficio esecutivo russo, propose persino a Putin un accordo in cui l'Ucraina non sarebbe entrata nella NATO se la Russia avesse annullato l'invasione. Putin rifiutò perché voleva anettere altri territori alla Russia.

Russian President Vladimir Putin had rejected a potential deal with Ukraine offered by his key envoy in the early days of the invasion as he “expanded” his goals to include annexing more territory, Reuters reported Wednesday, citing three unnamed sources close to Russia's leadership.

Kremlin deputy chief of staff Dmitry Kozak, Putin's chief envoy on Ukraine, was said to have secured a deal guaranteeing that Ukraine would not join NATO — a key Russian demand prior to its full-scale invasion of its pro-Western neighbor.

According to Reuters, Putin made clear that Kozak's deal with an unspecified number of Ukrainian concessions did not go far enough.

Putin reportedly “expanded his objectives to include annexing swathes of Ukrainian territory,” Reuters reported.

Come già detto la Russia non è mai stata pronta a negoziare una tregua o la pace. Alcuni esempi: nel dicembre 2022 Dmitry Peskov disse che qualsiasi piano di pace poteva avanzare solo se l'Ucraina avesse riconosciuto la sovranità della Russia sulle regioni ucraine annesse.

Putin rebuts key elements of African peace plan for Ukraine

Reuters

June 18, 2023 3:47 PM GMT+3 · Updated 4 months ago

June 17 (Reuters) - Russian President Vladimir Putin on Saturday gave African leaders seeking to mediate in the war in Ukraine a list of reasons why he believed many of their proposals were misguided, pouring cold water on a plan already largely dismissed by Kyiv.

The African leaders were seeking agreement on a series of "confidence building measures", even as Kyiv last week began a counteroffensive to push back Russian forces from the swathes of southern and eastern Ukraine that they occupy.

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said after meeting them in Kyiv on Friday that peace talks would require Moscow to withdraw its forces from occupied Ukrainian territory, something Russia has said is not negotiable.

Putin opened Saturday's talks with representatives of Senegal, Egypt, Zambia, Uganda, Congo Republic, Comoros and South Africa in a palace near St Petersburg by stressing Russia's commitment to the continent.

But after presentations from the Comoran, Senegalese and South African presidents, he stepped in to challenge the assumptions of the plan - predicated on acceptance of internationally recognised borders - before the round of statements could go any further.

Putin reiterated his position that Ukraine and its Western allies had started the conflict long before Russia sent its armed forces over the border in February last year, something they deny.
