Wichtigste Erkenntnis zum Krieg und Elend in der Ukraine: Die Schweiz muss sich raushalten, Sanktionen aufheben, zurück zur immerwährenden, bewaffneten, umfassenden schweizerischen Neutralität. Wer das bestreitet oder verhindert, schadet unserem Land, fördert Krieg und Gewalt.

The most important finding about the war and misery in Ukraine: Switzerland must stay out of it, lift sanctions and return to perpetual, armed, comprehensive Swiss neutrality. Anyone who denies or prevents this harms our country and promotes war and violence.

Köppel makes himself Putin's mouthpiece on "RT DE"

In an interview on the Russian propaganda channel "RT DE", Roger Köppel put the troop movements near the Ukrainian border into perspective.

As the "NZZ am Sonntag" made public on January 9, the SVP National Councillor and editor-in-chief of the "Weltwoche" criticized the condemnations from the West of Russia's troop movements.

"It's almost impossible to say that anymore," Köppel said in a statement on the broadcaster, which is loyal to Vladimir Putin. "But: There are many Ukrainians who would rather belong to Russia." Köppel warns the West: "The US should not interfere with this. If the Russians were to interfere with Mexico or Cuba, that wouldn't work either."

Köppel calls on US President Joe Biden, who has warned Putin against invading Ukraine, to "disarm rhetoric". Köppel also gives advice to other governments. He criticized the new German Foreign Minister Annalena Baerbock for her "moralistic behavior". He pleaded "that you get along well with the Russians", with the Chinese "the conversation is sought".

This interference of the "Weltwoche" editor-in-chief from Switzerland in the big world politics does not go down well in Bern. After all, the SVP National Council is a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee.

The President of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Council of States, center politician Pirmin Bischof, says that "Russia Today" is a state propaganda channel of an authoritarian regime. "It is highly questionable if Mr. Köppel allows himself to be harnessed by a foreign power in this delicate context of an impending war. He will thus become Putin's henchman."

According to the newspaper, FDP foreign policy expert Hans-Peter Portmann also criticizes the duplicity: "Roger Köppel upholds neutrality and prescribes to other politicians that they do not have to comment on the conflicts worldwide. This does not seem to apply to him."

Green politician Céline Vara finds it "highly problematic" when asked by the "NZZ am Sonntag" that Köppel relativizes Russian behavior in a context in which the lives of thousands of people are threatened.

Köppel himself said that he wanted to make "a contribution to better understanding". "I don't think much of the refusal to talk and the exclusion of foreign television stations," said the journalist, publisher and SVP politician.

World Week: Ms. Lvova-Belova, you are actually a musician and a conductor. What made you decide to take care of children full-time?

Maria Alexeyevna Lvova-Belova: After a short career as a musician, I had children. After that, foster children were added. I began to deal with family policy issues and became a senator, that is, a member of the upper house of the Russian parliament. I am a practitioner. I know everyday life.

World Week: They have an unbelievable extended family, we read. You could be described as a kind of embodiment of "Mother Russia". How many children, biological and foster children, do you have?

Lvova-Belova: There are ten, five of them biological and five foster children. In addition, there are thirteen young people with intellectual disabilities who are in my care. They don't live in my family, they don't live in my house, but I take care of them. They live in a center that I founded.

World Week: How do you organize your everyday life between family and politics?

Lvova-Belova: Of course, I want to spend as much time as possible with my children. But now the circumstances are such that I have to work a lot. I serve my country, my president. My children understand that. They share their mother with the country.

World Week: What is your most important parenting principle?

Lvova-Belova: I want my children to know that I love them. I hug them, talk to them warmly and try to understand what's on their minds.

...Märchen nach wie, dass die Ukrainer in Mariupol „Kinder als Schutzschilde“ einsetzten, oder dass die 🇺🇦 sich weigerte, Kinder aus Bakhmut zu evakuieren. Die Wahrheit ist, dass Russland versucht, seinen demographischen Verfall durch die Entführung 🇺🇦 Kinder zu lösen.

World Week: Reporting in the West paints a completely different picture. Nightmare scenarios are conjured up with brutal Russian soldiers tearing their children out of the arms of screaming mothers in order to reprogram them into Russian robots in totalitarian concentration camps.

Lvova-Belova: This reporting is dominated by Ukrainian propaganda. They want to portray us as monsters in order to get even more weapons from the West. We see it quite differently: the Ukrainians project their own deeds onto us Russians. In Mariupol, they have been proven to use children as shields. Those who tried to flee were shot. Or take Bakhmut, where these heavy battles took place: the Ukrainians hesitated for an incomprehensibly long time before finally taking the children out of the city. Do not believe everything that the Ukrainians tell. I have cared for children whose feet have been torn away by Ukrainian mines. After we equipped these children with prostheses and brought them back, they were paraded by the Ukrainians to blame Russia.

World Week: Can you really rule out the possibility that children from Ukraine were forcibly abducted to Russia?

Lvova-Belova: I am not aware of any such cases. Nor is it in line with our policy. We do not want to make an enemy of a fraternal people. We are fundamentally open. If you want to go to the West, please do so. If you want to live in Ukraine, no problem. We do not rule anything out, but we call for solutions to be sought and the facts to be examined. Many Ukrainian families received humanitarian aid in Russia and then went on to Poland and Georgia. That's not a problem at all.

Man kann aber sicher sein, dass das Leben dieser entführten Kinder rosiger sein wird, denn Russland ist bekannt dafür, dass es sich gut um die eigenen Kinder kümmert.

Während seiner Zeit in Moskau traf Köppel auch Putins „Chefpropagandisten“ Wladimir Solowjow. In einem absurden Weltwoche-Propagandastück tischt uns Solowjow die Lügen über „ukrainische Nazis“ & „Völkermord im Donbass“ auf, während Roger ihn „Russlands Woody Allen“ nennt.

A visit to the devil

They call him "Putin's agitator". He threatened Britain with a radioactively contaminated monster wave. Is Vladimir Solovyov, brilliant, funny, superstar of Russian talk television, a criminal? A madman? Or Russia's Woody Allen?

Der Artikel endet mit diesem Kommentar von Köppel: „Warum landet ein Mensch, auch in unserem Land, auf einer Sanktionsliste, nur weil er Meinungen äußert, die unseren Regierungen nicht passen?“

"Well," sighs the devil. Or is a Russian Woody Allen sitting across from me? "I'm a Jew, I'm against Nazis, and the Europeans are taking away my property. Nothing new under the sun." Against Nazis? Of course, the Ukrainian regime is controlled by Nazis, he continues, if we don't have eyes in our heads. "Have you ever heard the name Bandera? They cheer for war criminals, oppress minorities, murder Russians." The West, the Germans, the Americans had looked the other way for years, promoting these ultranationalists. "Did you know that two weeks before Putin's invasion, Ukrainian artillery massively intensified its shelling of Luhansk and Donetsk?" True, but almost no one printed the Reuters report at the time.

Freedom, diversity, traditions

What Russia has taken upon itself in Ukraine is not a war of aggression, says Solovyov, but a liberation, "the long overdue help for our brothers in Donbass, who were systematically murdered by the criminals in Kiev. But the West is not ready to listen to the Russian point of view, because you despise the Russians, look down on them, consider yourselves so tremendously superior morally and civilizationally, and you are destroying the basic values of the West, freedom, diversity, traditions, family, economy and science with your gender madness."

"We haven't even started yet. For us, this is a police operation."

Köppel scheinen die Bombardierungen der Zivilbevölkerung, Kriegsverbrechen, Entführungen von Kindern, Vergewaltigungen und andere Gräueltaten, die von den Russen in der Ukraine tagtäglich begangen werden, einfach egal zu sein. Stattdessen behauptet er, ...

Ukrainian authorities discovered a room that Russians used to detain and torture children during the occupation of Kherson, Dmytro Lubinets, the Human Rights Commissioner of the Verkhovna Rada, said on Dec. 14.

According to testimonies from locals, other torture victims in the facility knew that Ukrainian children had been kept there by Russian security services, who had called the room "the children's cell."

The children were given little water and almost no food, Lubinets said. According to locals' testimonies, the children were subject to psychological abuse at the hands of their Russian captors, who told them that their parents had abandoned them and that they would never return home.

One 14-year-old boy was arrested and later tortured just for taking a picture of broken Russian equipment, Lubinets said.
