Diese #vatniksoup spricht über ruchlose ausländische Einflussnahme bei den US-Wahlen 2024. Wie 2016 & 2020 war auch diese Wahl Ziel massiver Desinformations- und Hacking-Kampagnen, die hauptsächlich aus Russland und dem Iran kamen.

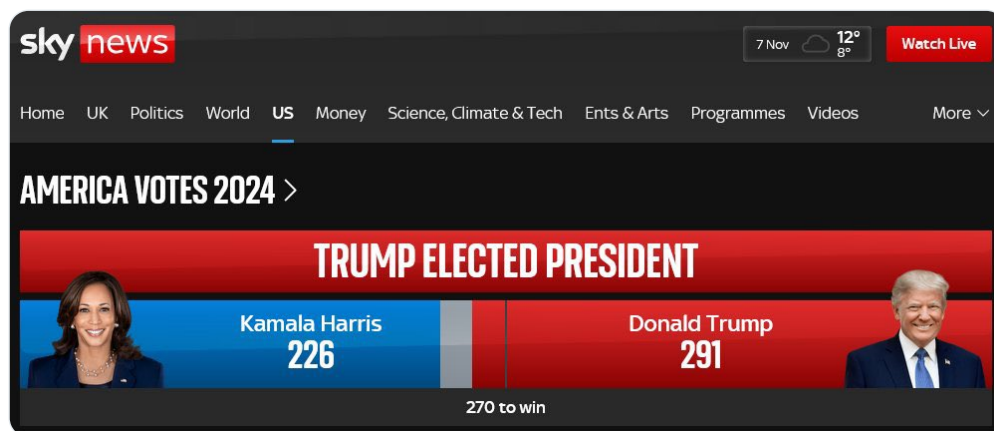

1/17

Wir glauben nicht, dass die Einflussoperationen allein die Wahl so sehr beeinflusst haben, dass sie wirklich einen Unterschied gemacht hätten.

Anders als 2016 war Trumps Sieg über Harris klar. Diese kurzfristigen Kampagnen haben diesmal nicht wirklich viel geändert.

2/17

Viele der ausländischen Online-Kampagnen griffen sowohl Harris als auch Walz auf verschiedenen Social-Media-Plattformen an. Vor allem Walz wurde nach seiner Nominierung zur Zielscheibe und es gab viele russische Versuche ihn zu diffamieren.

Viele der falschen Geschichten stammten von der  Propagandagruppe Storm-1516, einem Ableger der berühmten Internet Research Agency des verstorbenen Jewgeni Prigoschin. Die Gruppe wurde 2023 von Darren Linvill's Team von Medienforensikern an der Clemson Uni entdeckt.

4/17

This was first discovered by Alex Liberty, a researcher who tracks the activity of Russia's propaganda networks and who agrees with Linvill's assertion that the deepfake video bears all the hallmarks of a Storm-1516 campaign.

“We believe that it might be a coordinated campaign in [an] attempt to bring numerous false accusations of the same nature against Tim Walz through different channels and in different formats in order to bring an image of legitimacy to the narrative,” Liberty tells WIRED.

Die Gruppe hat schon lange Deepfakes & gefälschte Whistleblower-Videos verbreitet. Die Lüge über sexuellen Missbrauch von Tim Walz stammt von Storm-1516, sowie auch die falsche Fahrerflucht-Geschichte über Kamala Harris. Trumps Verbündete haben die Lügen online verbreitet...

Russia propaganda group behind fake Kamala Harris hit-and-run story, says Microsoft

Microsoft researchers found that the group created a video, paid an actor to appear as the alleged victim, and spread the claim through a fake website

Microsoft researchers accused Russia of being behind a viral fake news story that claimed Kamala Harris has been involved in a hit and run incident in 2011. Photograph: Jim Watson/AFP/Getty Images

The claims peddled by the actors and false primary sources in these videos fall apart upon basic inspection. Experts quickly identified Olesya, the Ukrainian troll, as an AI-generated fake. The 2011 hit-and-run never happened, according to San Francisco police, and KBSF-TV, the local news station behind the claims, does not exist.

And the companies that own the yachts told reporters they hadn't been sold. But the story spread anyway, and this time, far – from small-time right-wing influencers to members of Congress, including Sen. JD Vance of Ohio, now the Republican vice presidential nominee.

...darunter Leute wie der Pizzagate-Promoter Jack Posobiec & die rechtsextreme Podcasterin Candace Owens. Ein anderes großes X-Konto, „Black Insurrectionist“ (der ein Weißer namens Jason G. Palmer ist), verbreitete gefälschte E-Mails darüber & löschte schließlich sein Konto.

"Black Insurrectionist," the anonymous social media persona behind some of the most widely circulated conspiracy theories about the 2024 election, can be traced to a man from upstate New York. He's white.

What You Need To Know

- "Black Insurrectionist," the anonymous social media persona behind some of the most widely circulated conspiracy theories about Vice President Kamala Harris and her running mate Tim Walz, can be traced to a white man from upstate New York
- He has a history of drug abuse and a long list of former business partners who have accused him of fraud
- Jason G. Palmer acknowledges he was involved with the account but denies that he is the author of it
- The speed and scale of disinformation has been an animating force in the presidential campaign, with the potential to affect the outcome in a close election

Zudem gab es mehrere KI-gesteuerte Botnetze, die Pro-Trump-Botschaften auf X verbreiteten. Angeblich wurden diese Netzwerke NACH den Wahlen abgeschaltet, was zu einem Verlust von hunderten oder sogar tausenden von Anhängern führte, wie viele große X-Konten berichteten.

DETAILS

On July 13, 2018, a federal grand jury sitting in the District of Columbia returned an indictment against 12 Russian military intelligence officers for their alleged roles in interfering with the 2016 United States (U.S.) elections. The indictment charges 11 defendants, Boris Alekseyevich Antonov, Dmitriy Sergeyevech Badin, Nikolay Yuryevich Kozachek, Aleksey Viktorovich Lukashev, Artem Andreyevich Malyshev, Sergey Aleksandrovich Morgachev, Aleksandr Vladimirovich Osadchuk, Aleksey Aleksandrovich Potemkin, Ivan Sergeyevech Yermakov, Pavel Vyacheslavovich Yershov, and Viktor Borisovich Netyksho, with a computer hacking conspiracy involving gaining unauthorized access into the computers of U.S. persons and entities involved in the 2016 U.S. presidential election, stealing documents from those computers, and staging releases of the stolen documents to interfere with the 2016 U.S. presidential election. The indictment also charges these defendants with aggravated identity theft, false registration of a domain name, and conspiracy to commit money laundering. Two defendants, Aleksandr Vladimirovich Osadchuk and Anatoliy Sergeyevech Kovalev, are charged with a separate conspiracy to commit computer crimes, relating to hacking into the computers of U.S. persons and entities responsible for the administration of 2016 U.S. elections, such as state boards of elections, secretaries of state, and U.S. companies that supplied software and other technology related to the administration of U.S. elections. The United States District Court for the District of Columbia in Washington, D.C. issued a federal arrest warrant for each of these defendants upon the grand jury's return of the indictment.

THESE INDIVIDUALS SHOULD BE CONSIDERED ARMED AND DANGEROUS, AN INTERNATIONAL FLIGHT RISK, AND AN ESCAPE RISK
