In today's #vatniksoup, I'll introduce an American propagandist, Florida Man and ex-cop, John "Badwolf" Mark Dougan (@RealBadWolf). He's best-known for his battle against the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office, and for his propaganda work for the Kremlin.

1/21

Before he became a grifter for Moscow, Dougan worked as a cop. He actually wanted to be a super cop, and in his first job as a small town cop he wrote more traffic tickets than the 11 other officers combined.

2/21

But all this was too boring for an ex-marine wanting to get in on the real action, which is why he transferred Belle Glade, Florida, a hotspot of criminal activity and the HIV capital of the US of A.

3/21

But Dougan had anger management issues, and he constantly ran into trouble with his colleagues. In 2006, he pepper-sprayed an off-duty officer, costing the county a 275 000 US civil judgment. In 2009, while working at his new job, John was accused of sexual harassment by...

A screenshot of a news article from The Palm Beach Post. The article is titled "Pepper-sprayed PBSO deputy wins $275,000 verdict" and is written by Jane Musgrave. The article describes a lawsuit where a Palm Beach County sheriff's deputy won $275,000 from a jury who believed a fellow officer used excessive force when he blasted his co-worker with pepper spray at a party. The article mentions Deputy Howard Howell and Deputies John Dougan and Matthew Wood. It also notes that Howell had been pepper sprayed and accused of threatening the officers with a gun. The article concludes that jurors earlier this month found both deputies had contributed to Howell's false arrest, and that only Dougan, who resigned last year, was ordered to pay the money. The screenshot also shows a "More Stories" section on the left with headlines like "Gas shortage? How do I find stations that have fuel?", "Brightline to unveil Orlando station this week: When will route open?", "The Park, West Palm's new municipal golf course, is pristine but pricey", and "Lawyers bill school board for thinking about future meeting".

..a female officer. The accusations ranged from inappropriate comments of sexual nature to repeated unwanted touching. In 2013, the case was settled out of court.

At some point he also realized that his colleagues were brutal and ruthless (and they actually were) with...

The town of Windham and a member of its police department will try to settle a sexual-harassment case out of court.

The Maine Human Rights Commission, which ruled Monday that Officer Danielle Cyr was discriminated and retaliated against by co-workers, will oversee the conciliation process.

Rebecca Webber, Cyr's attorney, said she doesn't know what compensation Cyr will seek, and that negotiations will be confidential. She said Cyr received worker's compensation while she was on a two-year administrative leave.

Cyr, who returned to work in Windham last week, repeatedly lodged complaints with superiors in 2009 about the behavior of a fellow officer, identified by Webber as Mark Dougan, who was fired in October 2009.

...their police work, so he decided to publish dirt on them on FB. Years later in another job - again out of spite against his fellow officers - he launched several websites where he'd smear his old colleagues and where people could share dirt on local authorities.

One of them, PBSOTalk.com, became a popular forum for leaking damning information. But he also used his various websites to spread fake news and doctored documents. According to Dougan, "A fake-news site is nothing without real news", and he used this strategy...

After Jessica tells him she could get arrested for giving confidential information about an upcoming stock merger, he says it's okay because he likes making money. How much does he like the thought of making money of an insider tip? He spent over $119,000.00 on the stock. Don't believe it? Just check out Wells Fargo stock transaction number 35040001 for 37.50 per share. Lewis claims he knows Jessica was a fake and he was taking the bait to see what she was doing. Let us play devil's advocate. If someone called you and you thought she was a fraud, then she gave you a stock tip, would you sink $120,000 of your money into that stock? ..he flew to to Moscow, leaving behind an angry (now ex-)wife and two children. Few years prior, Dougan had started visiting Russia regularly & on one of the trips he met with Putin's confidant, Pavel Borodin. His collaboration with the Kremlin probably started around this time. 10/21

The Kremlin has utilized Dougan's notoriety in the US in a very effective way. He's shown as an Edward Snowden-type of figure, who is persecuted by the FBI for his "whistleblowing activities". RT even made a documentary, "Breaking Bad Wolf", about Dougan.

It's shit.

John has been attempting to monetize his silly antics in various ways. In 2018, he published a book with the most ridiculous title which I just shorten to "Badvolf".

This true story is about John Mark Dougan, a Marine Corps veteran and former police officer who had enough of the violence and crime plaguing the Criminal Justice system. He blew the whistle and was retaliated against by the police administration. Dougan started setting up whistleblower websites all around the country for good cops to spill their secrets without fear or retribution. The justice system launched illegal investigation after investigation into every aspect of John's life, and John set up a clever operation to trick them into admitting they

In the book he claimed, that it was actually him who received the "DC Leaks" from "whistleblower" Seth Rich, and put them up online. The leaks were actually an operation by Russian hacker group/GRU intel unit Fancy Bear.

Russia's Fancy Bear Hackers Likely Penetrated a US Federal Agency

New clues indicate that APT28 may be behind a mysterious intrusion that US officials disclosed last week.

In Mar 2022, after Russia invaded Ukraine, Dougan claimed that he'd go to Ukraine to "prove" the existence of bioweapons labs. The idea of these labs originated from a QAnon supporter, and was then picked up by trustworthy news sources such as RT, Sputnik,...

MISSION IMPOSSIBLE

Notorious U.S. fugitive John Dougan has documented his journey to the war zone, where he says he plans to "prove" baseless allegations that Ukraine has been developing bioweapons.

CCP-controlled Xinhua, and the Russian embassy in Sarajevo. And of course Tucker Carlson together with Glenn Greenwald.

In Jul 2022, Dougan interviewed a British-born prisoner of war, Aiden Aislin, a clear breach of the Geneva conventions.

In Mar 2023, Dougan, together with Mike "iEarlGrey" Jones, appeared on state-owned national TV channel, Zvezda, to talk about their humanitarian (read: propaganda) project in Donbas Oblast in Ukraine.

Twitter user @cossackgundi discovered, that John had also appeared in a propaganda video while wearing a mask. Cossack referred to it as a "pro-russian freakshow", and I agree with this statement:

Dougan has an active YouTube channel with around 50k subscribers. His videos propagate the Kremlin narratives and also usually blame the West for hypocrisy, war crimes, and probably Satan worshipping. He also visits other podcasts, probably just to earn a living.

My "Man in Moscow" had two comments about Badwolf: first, he said that "Everyone says Dougan can't go 5 minutes without bringing up his trips to donbas". His second comment was that "he'll say anything for a few rubles".

To conclude: Dougan is just one Kremlin mouthpiece & "RT correspondent" in the big swarm of paid shills. Most of these pathological liars are trapped by the propaganda factories like RT, since they're own channels have been demonetized and they can't get a job anywhere else.20/21

With charges of extortion and wiretapping hanging over his head, he probably won't ever be able to go back the US. Until then, he'll just have to publish videos on how great the supermarkets in Moscow are.
