In today's #vatniksoup, I'll introduce a Russian diplomat, SVR officer & First Deputy Permanent Representative of Russia to the UN, Dmitry Alekseevich Polyanskiy (@Dpol_un). He's best-known for promoting Western, pro-Kremlin fake news blogs & individuals like @TheGrayzoneNews.

1/22

Dima was previously stationed in Warsaw, from where he then moved on to work in New York to work under Vasily Nebenzya, the current Permanent Representative of Russia to the United Nations, and the man who had to announce the infamous "Ukrainian combat mosquitos".

2/22

Now, before we move on, it's worth mentioning that Dima is actually an officer of SVR, Russia's Foreign Intelligence Service. He comes from the so-called PR or Public Relations line, so he's not exactly the James Bond of the agency, but he still has a lot of influence & power.3/22

Now, there's nothing new at using agents as diplomats, and Russia has utilized this strategy since the days of the KGB. For example, in Finland 1/3 of Russian embassy staff in Helsinki were intelligence agents & a lot of them were expelled recently from the Nordic countries.

Intelligence agents account for one third of Russian embassy staff in Helsinki, Yle probe finds

Yle's investigative unit MOT's probe was part of a wider collaboration of Nordic public broadcasters, in which journalists have uncovered the identities of dozens of Russian intelligence officers.

Sweden expels five Russian Embassy employees on suspicion of spying

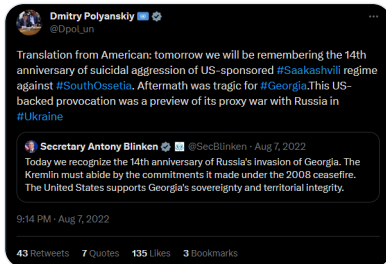

RUVO FOUVA

He's relatively happily married (we'll get to that later), and his daughter, Anastasiya, was married to a Georgian man. Now, Dima absolutely despises Georgians. Which is why he was extremely happy when his daughter and her Georgian husband decided to file for a divorce.

5/22

So, Dima (allegedly) lives a happy life in Manhattan, New York, and apparently enjoys his life in the biggest NATO country out there, eating at the fanciest restaurants. At the same time, he's constantly trashing the oh-so decadent West.

Hypocrisy much?

6/22

Often tweeting against the "decadent West", it seems that Dima has also been corrupted by it - he's had intimate, extramarital relations with Lenka Houskova White AKA @whitlenka, a former Sputnik journalist and model from the Czech Republic.

7/22

Unfortunately, Dima and Lenka recently split up and he now has a new mistress from the office where he works at. They still like and comment on each other's tweets, though, which is kinda cute!

We couldn't reach out to Dmitry's wife, Maria, for a comment on the matter.

UKRAINE conflict is NOT influencing relations among @NASA (USA)/@roscosmos (Russia) multinational Crew-6 team - launching to space in February...

Polyanskiy seems to have his tentacles everywhere in the Western vatnik space. His favorite outlet seems to be the Grayzone blog, and he's appeared with the GZ boys @MaxBlumenthal and @aaronjmate on few occasions. Here he is denying any invasion before the war started.

9/22

He's also appeared on Hinkle's "The Dive", @ReadeAlexandra's podcast, and even allegedly talked with Sarah "Donbass Devushka" Bills. She's a pathological liar, though, and everything she says should be taken with skepticism.

10/22

I wouldn't be surprised if it was actually Dima who invited both Max and Aaron to speak at the United Nations Security Council on behalf of Russia. Actually, I'm gonna take this a step further - I wouldn't be surprised if Dima was the handler of these two and Hinkle.

11/22

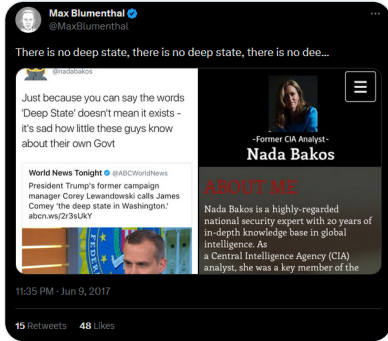

In general, Russia has turned United Nations' Security Council into a circus, inviting pro-Kremlin grifters like Blumenthal and Maté to spread the Russian lies. Hell, they even invited Ray McGovern who spent his 15 minutes of fame speaking German and singing peace songs.

12/22

Considering how much The Grayzone boys, Hinkle and Ritter hate the "deep state" and the Western version of the three letter agencies, they seem to have no problem in interacting with their Russian counterparts like the SVR.

13/22

I guess we can also take a look at Dmitry's tweets and appearances, but the content is pretty much what you'd expect: "Ukrainian Nazis", "8 years of shelling in Donbas", the corrupt and hypocritical West, Holodomor denial, mainstream media cannot be trusted, yada yada...

Since you are so sensitive, don't forget to mention that Ukraine had been shelling Donbass for 8 yrs. Killing women and children. And heroized Nazi criminals. And oppressed Russian speakers. I don't think US will tolerate such a neighbor. History didn't start on Feb 24 2022.

Initially, Polyanskiy was certain that Russia wasn't going to attack and blamed the West for propaganda. Of course, this story has since changed from "Russia won't invade Ukraine" to "NATO forced us to invade" now that Putin's genocidal war in Ukraine is evident.

Blair Says Iraqis Could Launch Chemical Warheads in Minutes
Sees Nuclear Weapon Capability in 1 to 5 Years

By WARREN HEDGE

LONDON, Sept. 24 — Britain asserted today that the Iraqi government of President Saddam Hussein could launch chemical or biological warheads within an hour or so after it got the go-ahead to do so, and might acquire a nuclear weapon in one to five years. The claims were made in a 10-page report intended to bolster the Bush administration's case against the Iraqi leader and released today a few hours before Prime Minister Tony Blair outlined to British lawmakers his case for war if necessary to make Iraq disarm.

Addressing an emergency session of Parliament, Mr. Blair said: "Our case is simple this. Not that we take Iraq suspended with contempt, calling the report a collection of 'misinformation and lies' and saying limited British weapons inspectors would be pressed to 'indefinite' access to get a report on Iraq in the next several weeks.

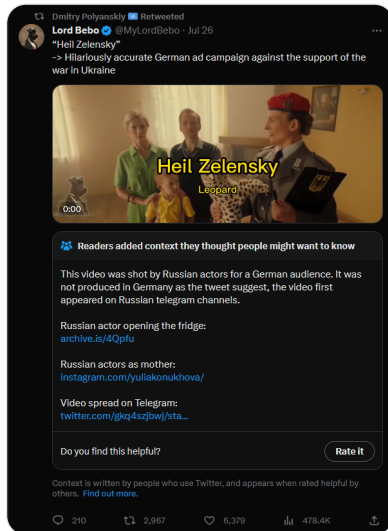

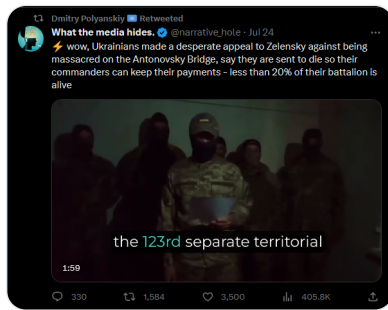

During a heated, 11-hour debate in Parliament after Mr. Blair's statement, several lawmakers from the prime minister's Labor Party criticized him sharply. But there was also support and widespread praise for his case. In general, opposition to the Bush administration's war aims is less strong in Britain than elsewhere in Europe, where it is often vehement.

How many NATO military bases are in proximity to Russia? Dozens. How many Russian military bases are near the US? Zero! How many "color revolutions"/coup have NATO countries staged in our neighborhood? At least 5 with several failed. How many did Russia organize? Zero. NATO is part of a problem, not a solution. Get the hell out of my country's neighborhood, we don't need such boorish neighbors!

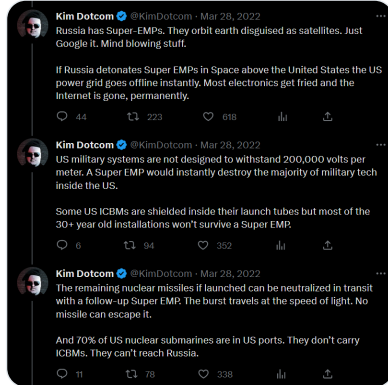

Ironically, Dima's profile states that he "rejects hatespeech, lies and fake news," but that's pretty much the only thing you can find on his feed. He's shared content from "citizen journalists" and "analysts" like Hinkle, @MyLordBebo, @GonzaloLira1968 and @narrative_hole.

16/22

Many of the people Dima follows have been featured on #vatniksoup previously: Sonja van den Ende, Kim Dotcom, David Sacks, Richard Z AKA Trollstoy88, Nina Byzantina, Wyatt Reed... The whole thing is just absurd, considering he's a high-rank UN official.

17/22

Dmitry loves talking about the "Ukrainian Nazis", often citing "journalists" like Maté and Johnny Miller. Of course he knows that the "neo-Nazi problem" in Ukraine is mostly fabricated, and it's actually Russia that has a problem with Nazis:

In today's #vatniksoup I'll talk about Russian Nazis and introduce Russian neo-Nazi movements and paramilitary groups like Rusich and PMC Wagner. They're best-known for being funded by the Kremlin and being responsible for the "denazification" in Ukraine.

Looks like the only worry "The Times" had about #AzovNazis insignia boils down to the fact that it was "exploited by Russian propaganda"! If we apply this logic Hitler would have stopped being the Nazi leader the moment he took off swastika band from his sleeve!

It's almost like it was never about the "de-nazification" rather than about putting Putin's friends into power in Ukraine. Of course, most of us knew that already, which is why the whole "Ukrainian Nazis" narrative is being ridiculed all over social media.

20/22

On 14 Jul 2023, Dima appeared on "Maverick News" together with elite war analyst and convicted sex criminal, Scott Ritter. The discussion revolved around "NATO expansion", "money laundering" in Ukraine, evil "Ukrainian Nazis" and how Zelensky "let down the Ukrainians".

21/22

To conclude: Polyanskiy is an SVR officer who keeps close contact with many of the Western vatniks, probably even collaborating and coordinating together with them.
